a detailed look at language related myths that explores both what we know and how we know it for a long time i have been giving scientific lectures in different countries and on diverse topics generally related to astronomy and to my work at the arecibo observatory no matter which particular topic i am talking about the same question always comes up have we had any contact at arecibo with them my negative answer does not satisfy anyone in fact the answer either confirms their suspicions that there is a conspiracy afoot by higher authorities not to release information or their intentions to deceive the general public the reasons for the deception have to do with the idea that as in the movie contact the received messages contain important and useful information that will bring great advantage to whoever gets it many of us want to believe that extraterrestrial creatures can talk to us that perhaps they are even living among us as ufo fans believe it would be fascinating if it were true a more than extraordinary discovery the answer to an eternal question there is possibly a deep psychological motive in this desire to know if we are alone in this huge universe and the need to believe in something beyond our limited world in space and time there is no doubt then that this topic brings with it many scientific and philosophical discussions as well as speculations that on many occasions fall into pure pseudoscience because of the lack of a reference framework language learning by a chimpanzee the lana project brings together several disciplinary endeavors such as primatology experimental psychology cognitive psychology computer and information sciences and neurosciences this book is composed of two sets of data one relates to language learning in the chimpanzee while the other deals with language construction by homo sapiens the fundamental issue of mind brain dualism and difference between man and beast are also covered this text mainly describes the lana project that aims to develop a computer based language training system for investigation into the possibility that chimpanzees may have the capacity to acquire human type language this publication is recommended for biologists specialists and researchers conducting work on language learning in nonhuman primates language is regarded at least in most intellectual traditions as the quintessential human attribute at once evidence and source of most that is considered transcendent in us distinguishing ours from the merely mechanical nature of the beast even if language did not have the sacrosanct status it does in our conception of human nature however the question of its presence in other species would still promote argument for we lack any universally accepted defining features of language ones that would allow us to identify it unequivocally ours from other species and contention over the crucial attributes of language are responsible for the stridency of the debate over whether nonhuman animals can learn language aping language is a critical assessment of each of the recent experiments designed to impact a language either natural or invented to an ape the performance of the animals in these experiments is compared with the course of semantic and syntactic development in children both speaking and signing the book goes on to examine what is known about the neurological cognitive and specifically linguistic attributes of our species that subserve language and it discusses how they might have come into existence finally the communication of nonhuman primates in nature is assayed to consider whether or not it was reasonable to assume as the experimenters in these projects did that apes possess an ability to acquire language neuroscience for counselors and therapists by chad luke provides an accessible overview of the structure and function of the human brain including how the brain influences and is influenced by biology environment and experiences full of practical applications this cutting edge book explores the relationships between recent neuroscience findings and counseling theories and then uses these integrated results to address four categories of common life disturbances anxiety depression stress and addictions the book s case based approach helps readers understand the language of neuroscience and learn how neuroscience research can enhance their understanding of human thought feeling and behaviors
