Afghanistan's experiences is a sweeping analysis of the historic events and interplay between politics, religion, and terrorism in Afghanistan. The southeastern region of the country and beyond the author has vividly explained the origin and the rise of Taliban to power. One of the most important sources of turmoil in contemporary time thus one can perceive how the dynamics of the sinister politics, religious extremism, and terrorism has culminated in avoidable brutal wars and human tragedies. Hamid Hadi has vividly described and put into political debate Afghanistan's history, the implications of the Russian invasion of Afghanistan, the Americans, the Pakistanis, and Saudis' role in the civil war, and the creation of the al Qaeda that led to the 9/11 tragedy. In a unique research and analysis the author has examined the acts of Islamic terrorists against the American people and institutions during the last 176 years and brilliantly deduced that the Russian invasion of Afghanistan was a watershed era in the formation of contemporary terrorism and that the failure of both superpowers' foreign policy in Afghanistan to a great extent has resulted in growth of the terrorist network. Besides a detailed description of the 9/11 tragedy and Iraq War, Hamid Hadi has painstakingly brought the world religions and Abrahamic religions in particular into debate and discussed the reform of the Islamic faith.

The authors chart a middle course in our war over religion and public education, one that builds on a developing national consensus among educational and religious leaders while it is not proper for schools to practice religion or proselytize, neither is it permissible to make them religion-free zones. Schools do not take religion seriously as the authors' review of textbooks and the new national content standards makes clear. In part one they outline the civic, constitutional, and educational frameworks that should shape the treatment of religion in the curriculum and classroom. In part two they explore major issues relating to religion in different domains of the curriculum in elementary education and in middle and high school courses in history, civics, economics, literature, and the sciences. They also discuss Bible courses and world religions courses and explore the relationship of religion to moral education and sex education.
